As God always was, is now, and will be forever. Amen.

First Reading - Acts 2:42-47

Second Reading - 1 Peter 2:19-25

Gospel - John 10:1-10

Sentence

What does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God? Micah 6.8

Prayer for the Day

Loving Shepherd:

you lead us nowhere you yourself have not been.

Call us by name,

lift us high upon your shoulders,

and bring us to the fold.

Through Jesus Christ our Liberator,

who is alive and reigns with you,

in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, now and for ever.

Amen.

Theme for the Week

This Sunday, like all fourth Sundays of Easter, is Good Shepherd Sunday. This is the one Sunday we are invited to take note of what Kenneth Bailey¹ describes as the ongoing Good Shepherd tradition with scripture. As I have said before this tradition begins with 23rd Psalm which uses the ordinary work of a shepherd to describe how God seeks out the lost sheep, brings them home, protects them, and provides all they need to flourish. Bailey says this basic tradition is reinterpreted again and again, including by Jesus in today's reading from John 10.

This is not just Jesus' reinterpretation. It is also John's. He sets his version within the story of the man born blind who was healed, was then cast out by the Jewish leaders, and then became a disciple and was included in Jesus own community of followers. Everything Jesus says relates back to those very concrete acts. In this version Jesus is the shepherd who lies across the gate at night and risks his own life to protect the sheep and is the door who welcomes in all who seek to join this flock. Jesus says "I came that they may have life, and have it abundantly."² Life, eternal life, life in abundance is the central theme in John. We are given abundant life. The question then is what does abundant life look like for us living with Covid-19? What does it mean for us to be given everything we need to flourish?

The Acts reading is a glimpse of how that first very diverse group of followers responded to this abundant life.

- How do we respond to abundant life?
- What ways of being church in this time of lock-down we might want to continue when we come out of lock- down to better respond to abundant life?
- Finally, what groups do we see in our communities offering abundant life to those who are struggling; groups like Foodbank, Te Tuinga Whanau and the Acorn Trust. Are we able to join that work in some way as part of our response?

Prayer

Our community - We pray for the communities of Gate Pa, Greerton, Pyes Pa, The Lakes and Merivale. We pray for those whose lives have been badly affected by Covid-19, either through the death of a loved one, ill-health, or changes to employment. We pray for all those seeking to bring healing and hope, particularly health workers and organisations like Te Tuinga Whanau, and Foodbank

We pray for those who are dying, sick, in hospital or in any other kind of need, parishioners in rest homes and those who normally receive home communion. We especially pray for any others you hold in your hearts.
