Prayer for the Day

God of seed and growth and harvest,
creator of need, creator of satisfaction;
give us, we pray, our daily bread,
sufficient and assured for all.

Give us also, we pray, the bread of life,
and we shall have a care to feed the hungry,
and to seek for peace and justice in the world.
Help us, then, to remember and to know that you are our life today and every day;
you are the food we need, now and for ever;
through Jesus Christ our Liberator,
who is alive and reigns with you,
in the unity of the Holy Spirit,
one God, now and for ever. Amen.

All are welcome to receive communion of both kinds Prayers and anointing for healing are available during communion in the chapel, at the back of the church.

Please keep this time silent for those who wish to pray

Theme

Last week some of us struggled to keep up with St. Patrick once he gave up on his bad analogies. What he said was, "The Trinity is a mystery which cannot be comprehended by human reason but is understood only through faith and is best confessed in the words of the Athanasian Creed, which states that we worship one God in Trinity, and Trinity in unity, neither confusing the Persons nor dividing the substance, that we are compelled by the Christian truth to confess that each distinct Person is God and Lord, and that the deity of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit is one, equal in glory, coequal in majesty." (St. Patrick's Bad Analogies -

For many, one of the important features of traditional Trinitarian theology is the relationship between the three persons. I wonder what words we might use to describe this relationship. For me words like mutuality, love, generosity, and compassion come to mind. I am invited to be open to meet God in these kinds of relationships. And I am invited to live in ways that I build those kinds of relationships with others. This is what it means to live our Trinitarian theology.

Today is our harvest festival; a day to give thanks for God's ongoing generosity in the harvest. We might also give thanks for those who work in this land and overseas providing the food we eat. It is also Matariki which is, among other things, a time for preparing the soil for the next crop. There is no harvest without the earth. Harvest festivals remind us of the need to cherish the land and water.

How then might we describe our relationship with the earth which provides us our food? And what about those who work the land here and overseas, those who work transporting the food – too often in appalling conditions, and those who work in the stores we buy from. What kinds of relationships do we have with them or do we take it for granted? Today offers a chance to put our Trinitarian theology into practice, and to take stock of how we see and treat all these people and this good earth. What might we do differently so that our dealings with all these, either directly or indirectly, mirror the relationship at the heart of the Divine?

Prayer

We pray for those who are dying, sick, in hospital or in any other kind of need, parishioners in rest homes and those who receive home communion and any others you hold in your hearts at this time.

Our Church: Today we pray for Hui Amorangi ki Te Tairawhiti.

Our community: We pray for the communities of Gate Pa, Greerton, Oropi, The Lakes, Pyes Pa and Merivale. We particularly pray for the ministry of Centrepont and Whanau Aroha.

Our World: Today we pray for the Church in Asia. We continue to pray for the Ukraine.
